REGIONAL COUNCIL
Te Pane Matua Taiao

What is the role of the Regional Councillors?

Elected members, acting as the Council, are responsible for governance. This includes:

- Developing and adopting Council policy
- Monitoring the Council's performance against its stated objectives
- Prudent stewardship of Council resources
- Employing the Chief Executive

What does the Council do?

The Council and its various committees meet approximately every six weeks to receive reports from Greater Wellington staff, debate issues and decide on policy and budgets. The Council decides the overall policies, while Greater Wellington's management provides advice to the Council and is responsible for carrying out the Council's decisions. In general, meetings are open to the public and advertised in local newspapers.

How many committees are there within the Council?

To assist in the efficient running of business, the Council has established seven committees and one subcommittee. The terms of reference for the committees and subcommittee set out the responsibilities that have been delegated by the Council.

In addition to its committees and subcommittee, the Council has established advisory bodies that provide it with advice on iwi matters, issues affecting people with disabilities and farming matters.
